Fund Commentary at 30 June 2010

Fixed interest markets remained volatile as the sovereign crisis in Europe escalated, ultimately leading to the implementation of the EUR750bn EU/IMF stabilisation package. However, news that banks borrowed only EUR132bn at 1% on the final day of June in the ECB's replacement three-month facility was seen as positive. In general, the volatility saw government bonds benefit from their safe haven status. Yields on 10-year US, UK and German bonds fell by 90bps, 58bps and 52bps respectively. Corporate bond markets saw increased volatility, spreads narrowed until mid-April before steadily increasing. According to data from Merrill Lynch, sterling AA rated spreads widened by 38bps and BBB by 72bps. Bank debt weakened on concerns over their exposure to the peripheral eurozone countries; sterling tier 1 spreads widened by 174bps and euro tier 1 by 322bps. With investor confidence shaken and borrowing costs increased, the investment-grade new issue market saw limited activity.
